Project number: 2018-1-PL01-KA201-050865

The Context

- Young people make an extensive use of the technical potential of ICT based devices.
- This, without appropriate guidance, might lead to insufficient reading and writing skills.
- The educational system needs to teach how to exploit technologies as a mean to promote and reinforce literacy skills, benefiting from their attractive potential.

Objective

The objectives of the Parsifal project are:

- to use ICT to allow students to improve literacy
- To acquire the knowledge of the cultural heritage surrounding them
- To carry out a comparative analysis with the cultural heritage of other European areas.

The Target Group

- School Teachers
- Students
- School Directors
- Policy Makers in the Field of Education

Expected Results

The main project tangible results are:

- On-line repository of legends and traditional tales
- Essays with transnational comparative analysis
- Online interactive map

The structure of each essay should be the following:

Title of the essay

(e.g. Bulgarian Essay on Main characters and animals, real and mythological)

Introduction

The introduction should give an overview of the similarities of the national legends with the legends with the other countries. The purpose is to point out the common European roots and support the teachers in developing in the students a sense of belonging to a United Europe

Title of Legend 1

Please present the similarities and differences of the legend with the legends from the other countries. Try also to analyze and comment the differences.

Be sure to produce a text around 500 words

These contents will also appear under the description of each legend described in the Repository of Legends.

Connected legend	Please specify from the dropdown menu the connected legend
Description of the connection	Please describe the connection

The contents of the green box must be repeated for each national legend and it is advisable, for each legend, to have many connections with the other legends.
